A message from the Global CEO

“Expansion”: if there is a word that defines this year’s second semester, that is undoubtedly the right one. The following examples showcase why.

In September, we successfully organized our annual landmark event, for the fourth consecutive year, the SIGA Sport Integrity Week. The 2023 edition of the world’s premier Sport Integrity event saw participation from around the globe, from the Americas to Europe, from Africa to Asia, engaging industry leaders, sports enthusiasts, and integrity advocates from the entire sports ecosystem. This diverse critical mass stepped up and joined SIGA’s call to action and participated in a series of impactful thought leadership events and initiatives that validated the need for SIGA’s ambitious Reform Agenda for Sport. The 2023 edition covered all continents and encompassed over 35 cities from more than 20 countries, whilst engaging over 70 hosting partners, including some of the world’s leading sports organizations and top brands.

The current semester saw SIGA increase its institutional recognition and global influence with the signing of an important Cooperation Agreement with the Brazilian Minister of Sport, underpinning their intent to adopt the SIGA Universal Standards on Sport Integrity and the SIGA

Independent Rating and Verification System (SIRVS). Significantly, SIGA updated the SIGA Universal Standards on Good Governance in Sport and translated these into Portuguese, with French and Spanish in the pipeline for 2024 as we expand our SIRVS activities globally. September also saw SIGA and SIGA LATIN AMERICA sign a large-scale Cooperation Agreement with the Brazilian Congress, through the Parliamentary Front for the Modernization of Football in Brazil, who entrust SIGA and our Latin American subsidiary with the development of The Independent Study on the Future of Football in Brazil – the most decisive strategic initiative ever conducted in this field in Brazil.

As a testament to our consistent institutional growth, several new organisations became SIGA Members during this second semester, including the Aspire Academy, São Paulo Football Club and Yduqs Institute.

In August, another historic milestone was achieved when Liga Portugal became the world's first professional football league to successfully adopt the SIGA Universal Standards on Good Governance in Sport and go through SIRVS, obtaining SIGA certification.

From an internal perspective, SIGA's knowledge capital and expertise were further reinforced with the appointment of approximately 60 new global experts to serve on its Permanent Committees. This included core strategic areas, such as: Good Governance in Sport, Financial Integrity in Sport, Sports Betting Integrity, Media, Sponsorship and Sport Integrity, Gender, Race, Inclusion & Diversity, and Anti-Corruption in Sport.

SIGA continued to play a leading role in various international events, reinforcing our presence among key institutional partners. In my capacity as Global CEO of SIGA, I had the privilege of participating as a speaker in the 21st session of the United Nations Intergovernmental Working Group on the Effective Implementation of the Durban Declaration, addressing the vital topics of Anti-Racism and Human Rights. Furthermore, SIGA, in collaboration with IACA, organized a special event on "Integrity and Anti-Corruption in Sport", as part of the official agenda of the Conference of the States Parties to the United Nations Convention on Anti-Corruption.

To reinforce this growth period, a new chapter began with the commencement of a fifth cycle of the #SIGAWomen Global Mentorship Program on Female Leadership in Sport. We now have a record high of over 75 high profile global mentors ready to support the personal and professional development of women aged 24 and above from all over the world.

As ever, our commitment to positively shape the future of Sports places significant focus on the empowerment of the younger generation and providing them with the support and platforms to make a difference. This term we had the privilege of witnessing the current SIGA Youth Council present their Research Report, which shed light on what integrity in Sport signifies for young people aged 18 to 30. Our response to SIGA's Youth Council recommendation was clear and unequivocal. We encourage sports organizations to appoint representatives from this age group to committees dedicated to sports integrity, starting by... SIGA.

To conclude the year on a high note, we proudly launched the fourth edition of the Sport Integrity Journal during the SIGA Anti-Corruption Week. This edition, dedicated to the pivotal theme of Good Governance in Sport, featured insightful contributions from several top experts in the field.

As you will see throughout this Newsletter, the impact of our collective effort echoed around the globe, capturing the attention of key stakeholders, practitioners, and media outlets far and wide. Accordingly, we became the focal point of numerous news articles and interviews, with the SIGA Global Media Network continuing to play a meaningful role in advancing the SIGA Reform Agenda and our collective efforts to facilitate Sport's progressive evolution.

Looking ahead to next year, SIGA's stance on Sport Integrity will continue to be defined by forward motion. A constant commitment to instigate collective action and press for critical reforms is bolstered by your support, your active involvement and participation. Together, we can, and will, help create the sustainable, inclusive, and accessible vision of Sport, built upon the foundations of Integrity, that we all aspire it to be.

On this note, I wish you all a restful Festive Season and Happy New Year. See you in 2024!

SIRVS advances with Liga Portugal's certification on Good Governance in Sport

LIGA PORTUGAL has made history by becoming in August 2023 the first professional football league worldwide to attain the Bronze SIRVS Certification for Good Governance in Sport. This achievement followed a rigorous assessment of Liga Portugal's governance rules, processes, and practices by SIGA's independent audit team, certified under the Independent Rating and Verification System (SIRVS). The recognition places Liga Portugal alongside the European Rugby League Federation as trailblazers in demonstrating compliance and readiness for investments from broadcasters, sponsors, government funding, and fan support. Liga Portugal joins several other renowned sports organizations, including UEFA, committing to SIRVS, this milestone highlighting the league's commitment to transparency and good governance in a time when the sports industry faces increasing demands for reform. SIGA's Global CEO, Emanuel Macedo de Medeiros, commended Liga Portugal's pioneering role and encouraged other sports organizations to follow suit in their governance journey, aiming for higher standards and accountability.

SIGA welcomes new members

SINCE June, the Sport Integrity Global Alliance (SIGA) has welcomed an impressive lineup of new members to its network. Joining the ranks are Aspire Academy, São Paulo FC, and Yduqs, marking a significant expansion in SIGA's membership base. These three additions join the six previously welcomed new members in 2023, which included SCML, Sports Innovation Lab, Sicredi, C6 Bank, Accord, and Passarelli. With this recent influx of members, SIGA's family has grown by nine, underlining the organization's commitment to uniting and strengthening the global sports community in its pursuit of integrity, transparency, and excellence.

Brazilian Congress commissions SIGA to develop Independent Study on The Future of Football in Brazil

SIGA has solidified its leading role in Global Sport Integrity within Latin America's largest and most populous country by entering into a groundbreaking Cooperation Agreement in Brasilia with the Brazilian Congress, represented by the Parliamentary Front for the Modernization of Football. Following the signing ceremony, Emanuel Macedo de Medeiros, SIGA's Global CEO and Chairman and CEO of SIGA LATIN AMERICA, announced the launch of "The Independent Study on The Future of Football in Brazil" in collaboration with the Parliamentary Front for the Modernisation of Football, led by Congressman Eduardo Bandeira de Mello. This pioneering project, unveiled during the ongoing Sport Integrity Week 2023, garnered unanimous and enthusiastic support from the audience at the Congress in Brasilia. With Brazilian football facing increasing challenges and reputational issues, the Independent Study aims

World-Class Experts Join SIGA's Permanent Committees for Sport Integrity

THE Sport Integrity Global Alliance (SIGA) has taken a significant step towards enhancing its global influence by appointing key figures to its newly established Permanent Committees. Comprising a distinguished group of 70 leaders and experts from diverse sectors, these committees combine to mobilise a world-class think tank that ensures comprehensive multi-industry representation. The members hail from various backgrounds, including national and international sports organizations like FIFA, UEFA, and FIFPRO, demonstrating a strong commitment to integrity in sports. Notably, government representatives also contribute, underscoring the increasing political will to combat harmful practices and criminal involvement in the sector. In addition, the committees benefit from the valuable experience of individuals from financial and anti-corruption institutions, as well as experts in areas such as sports betting integrity and prevention of gambling addiction, collectively contributing to SIGA's mission of promoting integrity and reform in the sports industry.

These Permanent Committees are integral components of SIGA's organic structure, serving as vital pillars in shaping the organization's policies and driving best practices and integrity reforms. With their specialized focus on strategic areas, they facilitate knowledge exchange, information sharing, and expert guidance, ultimately providing invaluable recommendations to SIGA's Council and Global CEO. Together, this diverse group of leaders and experts reaffirms SIGA's commitment to promoting transparency and integrity in sports on a global scale.

Anti-Racism & Human Rights: SIGA calls for Sport to Accelerate Cultural Change during United Nations Session

EMANUEL MACEDO DE MEDEIROS, the Global CEO of the Sport Integrity Global Alliance (SIGA), delivered a compelling address at the 21st session of the UN's Intergovernmental Working Group on the Effective Implementation of the Durban Declaration. Speaking on a high-level panel addressing "Sport and Racism" at the United Nations, Macedo de Medeiros issued a powerful call to action, urging the sports industry to lead by example. He emphasized the need for the sports sector to operate under the highest integrity standards, free from corruption, racism, and discrimination, asserting that sport has a pivotal role to play in fostering positive transformation amid a troubled world beset by numerous challenges. Highlighting instances of racial discrimination in sports, he underscored the urgent need to combat such issues vigorously, declaring that lip service is not enough. Macedo de Medeiros also shared SIGA's initiatives in the fields of Human Rights and Anti-Racism, Diversity, and Inclusion, advocating for the global sport movement to adopt and implement SIGA's Universal Standards on Sport Integrity. The address concluded with gratitude to UNOHR and appreciation for fellow panellists who joined SIGA in the quest for a more inclusive and equitable sports industry.

Save the date for the Annual Summit on Female Leadership

THE annual SIGA Summit on Female Leadership in Sport returns to Manhattan's 5th Avenue on March 6, 2024, hosted by Mastercard at their Technology Hub for the third consecutive year. This one-day, high-level event is dedicated to enabling networking, learning, and mobilization within the global sports industry, bringing together female leaders and male allies to promote gender equity on and off the field of play. The event underscores SIGA's ongoing commitment to closing the gender gap in sports leadership through mentorship, training, and networking opportunities.

As a key component of the SIGA Women Programme, which also encompasses the Global Mentorship Programme and Women on Wednesdays show, this Summit is a cornerstone event for leaders that are driving change and advocating for women's involvement in sport at all levels. The 2024 edition will offer both in-person passes and a digital live-streaming option, with open registration.

SIGA Youth Council recommendation for all Sports organisations

THE SIGA Youth Council has successfully concluded its “Survey Research: Perceptions of Sport Integrity,” and the insightful findings are now available for download on the SIGA website. The survey results highlighted a noticeable gap in education and knowledge sharing within the 18-25 age group invested in sports. Interestingly, nearly all respondents recognized the pivotal role young adults can play in driving change within the industry. In response, the SIGA Youth Council has recommended that international institutions consider appointing at least one representative from this demographic to key committees dedicated to sports integrity.

Discussing Match-Fixing at i955 FM Trinidad and Tobago radio station

Emanuel Macedo de Medeiros, Global CEO of the Sport Integrity Global Alliance (SIGA), Chairman and CEO, SIGA LATIN AMERICA, has raised alarm bells about the pervasive threat of match-fixing in the world of sports, emphasising that no country, region, or Sport is immune to its influence. Speaking in a recent interview with radio i955fm, Macedo de Medeiros referred to a specific incident in Trinidad and Tobago as just the tip of the iceberg, underlining the gravity of the issue that involves billions of dollars and often organised crime. He stressed that to protect Sport Integrity, it is imperative to acknowledge the reality and take immediate action by implementing robust licensing processes for betting operators and prioritising training, education, and capacity building.
